Abstract

For original articles it must be prepared in a structured form containing a maximum of 250 words. It must contain: Background Specific aim Methods Results and Conclusion. For brief communications case reports and review articles the abstract must be structured and limited to 150 words. Enter the words (or keywords) using the DECS - Descriptors in Health Science Bireme <http://decs.bvs.br/> available. Three key-words at least are necessary separated by commas. Do not cite references in the abstract.

Text: Divide the text according to the type of article (see detailed information on the item of Content Items; no punctuation should follow their titles). The Introduction should make a brief review of relevant literature in order to demonstrate the relevance of the study. Methods must be described so that the reader understands how the search has been conducted. In human research, it is mandatory to inform the existence of informed consent and approval by the medical ethics committee. The results should be presented in a consistent manner and linked to the goals and methods described. Discussion should reiterate the main findings of the manuscript the negative aspects discuss and compare the importance and implications of the findings. The conclusion must be made so that the author refrains from interference or not deductions based on the findings of the study. In original articles the process number of the Committee or the Ethics Committee of the Institution should be informed. Any financial support for research should be disclosed.

References:

Limit to 40 references for original articles, 25 for case reports and 100 for review articles. References should be arranged in the text in the order they are cited and presented in numerical order of appearance in the text as superscript numbers. The references should be the most updated references in the area. References of textbooks with more than 5 years should be limited to those that are fundamental. Mention all authors up to a total of 6. If the article has more than 6 authors, cite only the first 6 followed by et al (preceded by a comma). When the quote is an article already accepted for publication, include the phrase "in process of publication," indicating the journal and year. Unpublished results or studies presented at medical conferences are not recommended for citation.

Use the abbreviations of the journals found in Index Medicus / MEDLINE, available at: <http://www.nlm.nih.gov/tsd/serials/lji.html>.

If the reference is an organization its name should be cited. Example: World Health Organization.

Usar as abreviações das revistas encontradas no Index Medicus/Medline, disponível em: <http://www.nlm.nih.gov/tsd/serials/lji.html>.

Tables

The Tables should be numbered in Arabic numerals (1, 2, 3 ...) headed by their titles or explanatory captions, typed one per page in separate files. Cite tables and illustrations in the text in numerical order. Tables should include only the necessary information for understanding the important point. The data presented in tables should not be repeated in the text and in graphs. Use only horizontal lines in the header and table footnote. Do not use vertical lines.

Figures

The figures (such as photographs, charts and drawings) should be cited in the text and numbered in Arabic numerals (1, 2, 3 ...) in order of appearance. The number of figures should be limited to 6 and should be used when strictly necessary. Each illustration must be accompanied by an explanatory legend that makes it understandable, without explanation in the text. All captions should be listed on the same page at the end of the article. Figures should be submitted in electronic format as. Jpg., Gif or. Tif, with a resolution of 300 dpi. The figures will be accepted for publication in color online but will be printed in black and white and therefore should be intelligible. Authors must have written permission for the use of previously published figures.
